Dear Mr Jovanovic,

Thank you for your message.

The establishment of the School of Health Management in Serbia was indeed a large EU-funded project designed to assist the Serbian authorities in educating state-of-the-art managers in the sector. The project had in fact proposed to the Ministry of Health to amend the relevant regulations so as to include mandatory training of future directors of health institution at master level. Unfortunately, these recommendations were not fully addressed during the lifetime of the project.

The School of Health Management is still active and the title given to its successful graduates is a scientific title of a Master Manager in the Health Care System. In order to assist your association and ensure sustainability of the EU's investment, the EU Delegation shall follow up on your correspondence and further inquire with the academic and health authorities to clarify the status of health care managers in Serbia.

We shall inform you of the result of our inquiries in due course.

Yours sincerely,

Jose Antonio Gomez
